Marianne Castelly
Patrick Loughran
Kartini Thomas

Three ceramic artists - two Americans and a Française living in different parts of France, come together to share their sculptures in this playful show.

If the works of Patrick Loughran, Kartini Thomas and Marianne Castelly have similarities in their use of lush color and abstractly organic shapes, the creative processes of these ceramists are as rich as they are varied. Recombining alphabets of forms, sculpting and drawing in parallel, constructing and deconstructing, reveling in the modular, improvising with constraints, exploring the instinctive and the deliberate... methods which allow for an experimental and mischievous approach to ceramics. Awkward Beauty is an invitation to share in this creative experience and discover their new works.
